City rights-of-way eyed in land owners' suit

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Several Waveland landowners are suing the city, Hancock County and other landowners to regain ownership of property dedicated for future streets.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night at the recommendation of Lucien Gex, city attorney, authorized him to defend the city against the suit.

Gex reported Emile Gex Jr. of Picayune, his "second or third cousin"; Laurin Gex Lacoste of Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis; Temple Perkins Evans of Baton Rouge, La.; and Henry G. Perkins of McLean, Va. filed suit in Hancock Chancery Court recently demanding the city abandon "certain unopened, unimproved but dedicated streets" adjacent to undeveloped property they own southwest of the intersection of Old Spanish Trail and Nicholson Avenue.

The Sea Coast Echo several months ago reported the property in question is apparently being considered as a site for a new Hancock General Hospital.

Several property owners in that area of the city say they have been asked to sell their land for hospital service businesses.

Gex reported, "Cousin Emile has been here (before the aldermen) to try to get the assessment on his property lowered."

"A rumor I heard is that he has a handsome offer for the land," he stated.

Defendants named in the suit are Mayor John Longo of Waveland, Hancock Board of Supervisors President A. A. (Dolph) Kellar, James P. Carney Jr. of Jackson, Floyd and Rita Smith of Gulfport, Thomas and Catherine Holzhauser of 536 Meadow Lane in Waveland, Maxine Brantley of St. Louis, Mo., Leon Cabes Jr. of Metairie, La., Robert Cabes of Lafayette, La., Louis Miller of Chalmette, La., Judith Stebel of Wilmington, Del., Ronald and Judith Galarza of Clermont Harbor, and David and Iona Wainwright of 410 Walnwright St. in Waveland.

The complaint includes Hancock County because the local government is claiming an interest in and to said streets by virtue of the same having been dedicated to the public on or about the 27th day of April, 1897, by the Bay St. Louis Land and Improvement Co.

The individual defendants own property in the area.

World Day of Prayer set Friday

Around the time of World War II, the United Council of Church Women, an ecumenical organization of women from various denominations, was active in the Bay-Waveland area.

One event they sponsored was setting aside one day each year when they invited all women of the area to gather for prayer. Gradually this organization ceased to function.

Ladies of the Main Street United Methodist Church decided in 1975 to revive the practice of gathering annually for community-wide prayer in this area. They chose to observe World Day of Prayer which had begun several years before and was spreading around the globe, the service being held the first Friday of March.

This community's World Day of Prayer was held in 1975 and 1976 at the Main Street United Methodist Church, but other churches quickly became involved.

The Lutheran Church of the Pines hosted the 1977 observance with Christ Episcopal sponsoring the service in 1978.

In succeeding years World Day of Prayer services were held at First Missionary Baptist, First Presbyterian, Main Street United Methodist, and at First Assembly of God in Waveland in 1982.

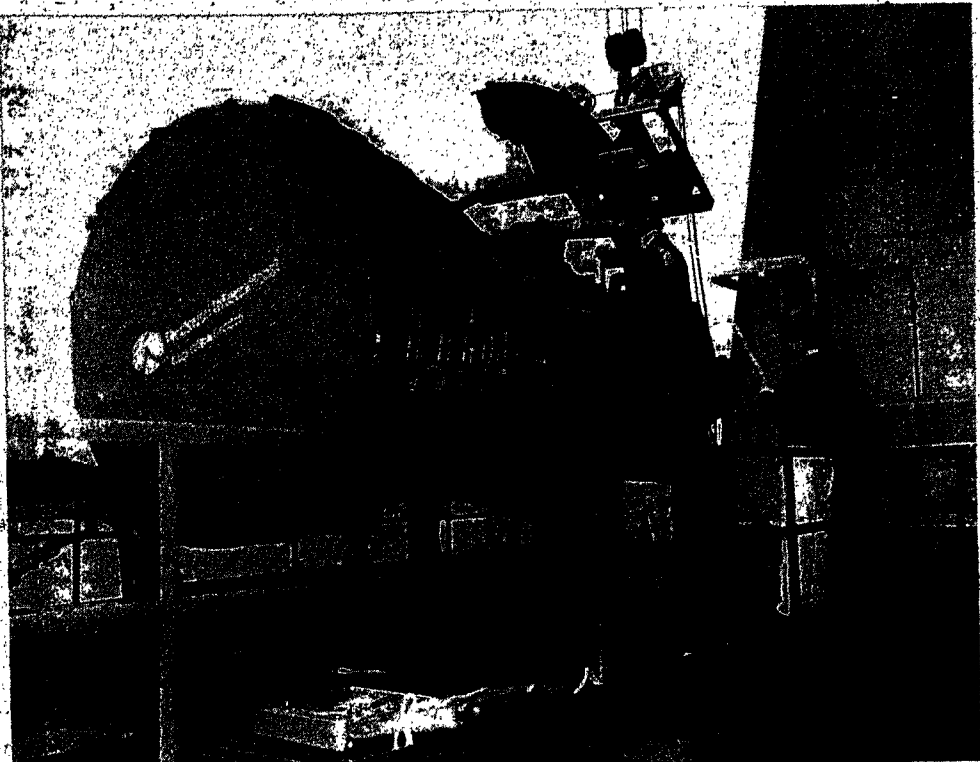

The service lasts no longer than one hour, and the host church establishes the order of the service.

Any offerings given during the service go into the Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund which is used to aid indigents of the area or travelers in distress.

The fund provides emergency relief in a small way, and those transients seeking aid must go through the sheriff's office where the need is checked. The money is always used within the community.

First Baptist Church on Main and Federal Streets is hosting this year's World Day of Prayer Friday. The service begins at 10 a.m.

Nathan Barber, First Baptist pastor, extends an invitation to all in the community to join in the observance.

SHUTTLE TANK SHIPPED

The latest Space Shuttle external tank to be barged from NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility left New Orleans Wednesday on a five-day trip to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Two weeks ahead of NASA's delivery schedule and 2,200 pounds under weight specifications, the ninth external tank is scheduled for a late 1983 flight on the third launch of the orbiter Challenger.

Martin Marietta builds the external fuel tanks at the Michoud facility under contract to the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

NSTL sends new engine, repair team to problem-plagued Challenger

A new replacement engine for the Space Shuttle Challenger was scheduled to be shipped early this morning from NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The engine, No. 2017, scheduled to arrive late tonight, will replace engine 2016, in which engineers had earlier detected a leak in a heat exchanger.

Engineers in Florida late last week discovered leaks in a hydrogen line in Challenger engines 2012 and 2015 and in test engines as well.

Earlier this week at NSTL, a team of Rocketdyne engine specialists from Canoga Park, Calif., repaired a fuel line crack on test engine 2014.

Rocketdyne manufactures the Space Shuttle Main Engine at a cost of 30 million each. The team left NSTL for the Kennedy Space Center on Wednesday to begin repairing the Challenger's three engines.

Mack Herring, NASA's public affairs officer at NSTL, said engine 2014 will be tested at NSTL to verify the acceptability of the repair. Similar repairs will be used on the Challenger engines.

All flight engines used in the shuttle program are acceptance tested at NSTL in a series of test firings ranging in duration from 1.5 seconds to eight and one-half minutes.

Each test has a number of objectives which "must be met during the simulated launch and flight conditions to evaluate the engine's performance."

Acceptance testing of the Challenger engines got under way at NSTL late last year. These new, more powerful engines have a slightly different design than that of the Columbia engines which performed flawlessly during the first five shuttle missions.

The second orbiter's maiden flight, originally set for January, had tentatively been rescheduled for March. At the present time, no assessment has been made as to the effect the repair work will have on the launch schedule.

Mississippi native Donald Peterson of Winona is one of four astronauts slated to fly during this sixth space shuttle mission. Mission specialists Peterson and Story Musgrave are scheduled to perform the first shuttle extravehicular activity or "space walk" during the five-day flight. STS-6 commander is Paul Weitz and Karol Bobko is pilot.

Earlier this week, the Associated Press reported from Kennedy that engineers began pulling out the last of space shuttle Challenger's three defective engines Monday after finding two more leaks that will delay its much-postponed maiden launch at least several days beyond March 20.

"I think we would be safe in saying that the delays will push us beyond that" (March 20 date), said spokesman Mark Hess at Kennedy.

He declined to speculate on when the flight might begin, but a space official in Washington who asked not to be identified said NASA expected the new problem would mean an added delay of two to 10 days.

On Friday, National Aeronautics and Space Administration engineers discovered a hydrogen line crack in the No. 2 engine. On Sunday, the same problem was found in engine No. 3.

"They decided to pull them both out and, hopefully, work on both of them here," said Hess.

The problem — different from those plaguing two other Challenger engines — appears to be inherent to all new shuttle motors now being built.

"It certainly looks like the design modifications on the new engines have something to do with it, but there has not been enough problem analysis completed to tell for sure," said Hess.

Challenger's No. 1 engine was removed Feb. 4 because a crack in its manifold allowed gaseous hydrogen to leak into the engine compartment.

No. 1's replacement engine then developed the heat exchanger leak.

The newest difficulty is with lines pumping hydrogen into the spark igniters of both No. 2 and No. 3 motors.

The cracks in the half-inch-diameter hydrogen lines were found at a point where sleeves are attached to them to prevent the lines from rubbing on the engine's powerhead, according to NASA engineers.

The engines on Columbia did not have the sleeves, said Hess, which is an indication that the difficulty is restricted to the new engines.

Hancock squad arrests two; probing car, trailer fires

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Sheriff Department Arson Investigation Squad in its continuing "war against arson" recently arrested two on felony woods-arson counts and is probing two suspected arson incidents.

Investigator Ed Friloux of the squad Wednesday reported John J. Favalora, 18, of New Orleans was arrested late Saturday afternoon for a felony woods arson charge, released on $5,000 bond and scheduled for a March 9 preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise.

"A witness signed papers against Favalora charging him with burning a number of acres off Approx Street in Harbor Estates Saturday," Friloux stated.

The investigator said five fires were ignited in the Harbor Estates area that day.

Friloux said he and Arson Investigator Reginald Fayard arrested Favalora at 4:50 p.m.

In the other felony arrest, Ishamel J. Ayo, 68, of Chalmette, La., was charged Tuesday with three arson counts, released on $5,000 bond and scheduled for a March 10 preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge Meridith Anderson.

Friloux said he and Arson Investigator Jay Marsh arrested and booked Ayo at 6:09 p.m.

He reported a joint investigation of the burning of about 68 acres recently in northern Hancock by the squad, Mississippi Game and Fish Commission and State Forestry Commission led to the arrest.

Friloux said the three felony charges stem from three Feb. 17 woods fires which include a:

—Fire near Bernice's Grocery on Hwy. 603 near the Necaise Crossing Community which burned about 42 acres;

—Blaze near the Browne's Ladner home between the Sellers Community and Necaise Crossing which destroyed about 20 acres;

—Fire near Saucier's Place in Sellers which claimed about six acres.

Regarding the arson investigations,

Friloux said the local squad and the State Fire Marshal's Office is probing a Tuesday morning blaze which heavily damaged a house trailer near the Fenton Community.

He reported the trailer owned by Michael and Kathleen Beech of Bobby Beech Road off Kiln-Delisle Road is about a 50 percent loss due to the blaze of a yet undetermined origin.

Responding to the fire were the Kiln and Delisle Volunteer Fire Department.

ments, Diamondhead Fire Rescue Unit and the arson squad.

The arson squad is also probing a Feb. 19 blaze which destroyed an automobile owned by Harlin Mauffray, 38, of Fenton.

"The car was reported stolen from in front of the Cinema Four in Waveland at 9:10 p.m. on Feb. 19 and was found by deputies at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 607," Friloux stated.

"The cab of the car was destroyed and it has been impounded by the squad for further investigation," he added.

Additionally, the arson squad recently arrested Larry Williams, 37, of Pearl River, La., and charged him with felony arson in a Shoreline Park structure fire and Danny Perrot, 23, of Chantilly Terrace in Bay St. Louis for arson in the first degree resulting from a fire at some apartments at the corner of Dunbar and Carroll Avenues.

In reference to the ongoing war against arson in Hancock, Friloux stated, "If someone drops a match in Hancock, they better be sure it's in a bucket of water or an ashtray."

He said the 'war' is proving to be successful and noted the Diamondhead Fire Department used to receive 55 calls per month, but last year had a total of 36 responses.

Friloux speculated other local fire departments are also experiencing similar decreases in calls for extinguishing fires.

The federal government is assisting local departments in fighting arson which is the number one crime in the United States. America has the highest arson rate in the world, he said.

He reported the monetary losses from U.S. arsons in one year could pay for the national debt.

Locally, the arson squad members have been certified by the National Fire Academy as arson investigation instructors and will be conducting courses for all local fire department personnel, Friloux revealed.

He also recommends owners of fire damaged or destroyed homes not to begin cleanup until authorized by the arson squad or insurance investigators so evidence will not be obliterated.

Alcohol Safety Education Program reports Implied Consent highlights

The Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program has recently been inaugurated in order to get the drinking driver in touch with the legal facts, responsibilities and penalties under the Implied Consent Act which became effective July 1, 1981.

The Mississippi Implied

Consent law states "any person who operates a motor vehicle upon the public roads of this state shall be deemed to have given his consent to a chemical test of his breath for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of his blood."

A person is presumed to be under the influence of intoxicating liquor when a chemical test indicates a .10 blood alcohol concentration.

A person may be convicted of driving under the influence at that level.

An intoxilizer test may be given to a driver by a Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol officer, a sheriff or his deputies, a city policeman, a national park ranger, a national park ranger technician or a military policeman stationed at a U.S. base in Mississippi.

First offense for driving under the influence is a mandatory $200 fine and mandatory attendance at a MASEP driving school, without which, there will be one year's license suspension.

Penalty for a second offense within two years is a $250-$1,000 fine and possible imprisonment for 10 days to one year, with a six-month license suspension.

Third offense within four years calls for a $500-$1,000 fine, possible imprisonment for 30 days to one year, with a two-year license suspension.

Driving under the influence with no test results available carries a maximum $100 fine and not more than 30 days imprisonment, plus mandatory MASEP attendance and a six-month license suspension unless attendance is completed.

If the possible drunk driver refuses to take a DUI test, the officer will take the person's license, give the offender a receipt and send the license to the Commissioner of Public Safety. The commissioner will then notify the offender by registered or certified mail that driving privilege will be revoked 30 days after the date of the notice, for a period of 90 days.

MASEP reports the following facts:

—Ethyl alcohol is the intoxicating substance in beer, wine and whiskey. One 12-ounce can of beer contains about the same amount of alcohol as one ounce of 100 proof liquor or four ounces of wine.

—At a blood alcohol concentration of .10 percent, the probability of having a driving accident is seven and one-half times greater than the no-alcohol driver.

Ochsner's develops breast cancer detection techniques

Transillumination light scanning, a new technique which permits doctors to view the inside of the human breast in a way never before possible, has an important role to play in detecting breast cancer and other breast diseases.

Reporting on a preliminary study of more than 500 patients at the Ochsner Medical Institutions, New Orleans, the light scanner edged out the mammogram in detecting cancer, says Dr. Christopher R.B. Merritt, head of the radiology department there. In a paper presented recently at the 68th Scientific Assembly and Annual Meeting of the Radiological Society of North America in Chicago, Ill., Dr. Merritt stressed the fact that his was "a preliminary study and that definitive assessment of the two diagnostic tools requires more data."

Of the more than 500 patients examined at Ochsner, 104 patients underwent biopsy. Of the 104, cancer was found in 23 patients.

The results of mammography, a technique which involves the use of x-ray, and the light scanner was similar, he explains.

"Mammography detected all but five of the cancers and the light scanner detected all but four of them. By using both techniques we were able to find all the cancers," he points out.

A third investigative tool used was ultrasound which was "found to be not as valuable in detecting cancer, but more helpful in identifying benign breast masses or cysts," Dr. Merritt states.

All three techniques are used at the Ochsner Clinic's Breast Screening Center established last May.

Transillumination light scanning of the breast involves examination by shining a specially filtered light source through the breast. This light source is capable of illuminating the breast tissue, as well as the blood vessels and blood supply. The picture of the inside of the breast shows up clearly during the examination on a television system specially adapted for this purpose.

"With the light scanner, we have been able to identify cancers as small as five millimeters or one-fourth inch in size. It is especially helpful in women whose mamrogram has failed to show the tumor or in instances where the breast tissue is, for various reasons, difficult to study with mammography," Dr. Merritt says.

"We do not feel in any way that our results warrant any departure from the current use of mammography. Combined with mammography, light scanning may improve our ability to detect breast cancer. Efforts are currently underway to see if in certain groups of patients, the light scanner can be an effective alternative to mammography," he points out.

Sunday, March 6 has been designated National Girl Scout Sunday.

It is the Sunday of the year all Girl Scouts are urged to attend church in their uniforms.

There are many Girl Scouts in our area, as well as many ladies who work very hard in the programs.

We do want to extend our thanks to the many volunteers in Girl Scouting activities. And we offer congratulations to all Girl Scouts.

Entries are now being received in the Annual Bay St. Louis Miss Hospitality Pageant scheduled for May 7. Janet Aime, coordinator, is recruiting young ladies between the ages of 18 and 23 who reside in Bay St. Louis.

The local pageant is a prelude to the State's Hospitality Pageant scheduled for July in Biloxi.

Young ladies interested in the pageant are sponsored by business, club, church, and civic organizations.

If you are interested in sponsoring a contestant we suggest you contact Mrs. Aime at Bay City Hall, phone 467-9092.

It was good to see the workers putting the finishing touches on the stripping of Main Street Sunday evening.

Main Street in Bay St. Louis really looks good now that the project is about completed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Hancock County NAACP critical of delays in making public results of investigations into Bay PD

Letter to Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

What are our leaders in Bay St. Louis doing? We say absolutely nothing when they seem to be so disgruntled or seem to be so lacking in initiative that they cannot exonerate or even condemn a man.

Chief Williams is still functioning as head of the police department. He has not been indicted. There seems to be every indication that he is innocent of all the accusations that were made in a Grand Jury report and published in the local newspapers and remain in the minds of many of the people in Bay St. Louis and surrounding areas.

We ask, is this fair to the chief, to the police department, and even to the community, to demand that our chief and the police department continue to function with this cloud of doubt hanging over their heads?

At the beginning 1982, 12 months ago, the Hancock County Grand Jury and Bay St. Louis City Council demanded an extensive investigation of the police department. The impression has been given that a "witch hunt" was in progress.

The Council, naturally said it wasn't so. But the fair minded people of Bay St. Louis can readily see that apparently Chief Williams was not dealt with fairly or squarely.

The investigation of a small department such as ours shouldn't take any competent group 12 months to complete.

Why, if all the councilmen were not for releasing whatever findings they have discovered on the chief, couldn't just one or two be men enough to state their opinions publicly, even a minority opinion.

Are these the kind of men we want to be our leaders? No! No! No!

The Grand Jury met over a year ago. They recommended a list of changes for the police department. Has anyone checked to see if any of these changes were carried out or has our council given the chief the courtesy to visit or call inquiring about the changes? As far as we have been able to find out, they have not.

It is a sad day in our city when some of those we place in authority are so blinded by what seems to be animosity, jealousy and hatred that they fail to see that a person of the same community serving in an honorable manner, cannot get a fair shake.

Is it racism? We wonder if a white police chief would be treated in the same manner?

Hardly! We certainly feel in our hearts that racism is playing a serious role in this matter.

It is seemingly willful neglect by the council and Grand Jury should make us all take notice. We must be careful of whom we choose to lead us. The way this situation seems to have been bungled, the chief could easily cry racism, bigotry, witch hunting, etc.

But knowing the man as we do, he'll just go doing his job to the best of his ability, treating everyone as fairly as possible, even with the cloud of uncertainty ever present over his and the department's head.

He'll keep the peace just as he did when he served as a policeman during the turbulent 60's through the early 70's, 18 long years.

Clarence Harris, President
Hancock County Branch NAACP

March is poison prevention month

Home isn't necessarily the safest place for children. Not when you consider that accidents in the home are the leading cause of fatalities and disabling injuries to children less than five years old.

March has been proclaimed National Poison Prevention Month to impress upon adults the urgent necessity of keeping toxic cleaning agents, detergents, chemicals, and medicines beyond the reach of children.

According to Bob Broadus, president of the Mississippi State Pharmaceutical Association, parents should never take anything for granted where a child is concerned. "Always prepare for the unexpected," says Broadus. "Children act fast, but poisons act even faster."

Broadus notes that the most tragic aspect of statistics concerning poisoning is that the overwhelming majority of the incidents could have been averted if the parents of the victims had taken ordinary safety precautions.

The statewide association of pharmacists lists several precautions all parents should take:

1. Cleaners, polishes, bleaches, the whole range of products used to clean, polish and shine the home, should be kept in their original containers. Even if it seems easier to pour them into a soda bottle, a dish or bowl when working, it is not safe. Children and even adults, seeing the chemicals in containers associated with food frequently mistake them for food.

2. Don't mix bleaches with other chemicals. When using strong cleaners, be careful not to inhale the fumes. Work with protective gloves. The skin can sometimes absorb poisons into the body. Little children should never be permitted to touch household chemicals.

3. Teach little children proper respect for medicines. If you tell youngsters that medicine is only candy or that it's good to eat and really just a game, you might be giving them dangerous ideas. When they find medicine within their reach, whether it's good for them or for adults in the family, they may swallow enough to make them very sick. They may even climb up to the medicine cabinet when you are not looking and help themselves.

According to Broadus, it's important for parents to understand that children will take almost any medicine, no matter how unpleasant, if parents give it to them without fanfare. "Offer the medicine in a matter-of-fact manner," says Broadus. "It isn't necessary for a child to fear or love medicine. No matter how young, a child should be taught to accept medicine as an occasional necessary aid to good health."

YOUR OPINION COUNTS

Against a backdrop of improvement in the national economy, I am now preparing my 11th annual questionnaire to the people of the 5th Congressional District.

Since I was first elected to Congress, I have asked the people for their opinions and viewpoints on major legislative topics. These opinions help me decide how to vote on these issues when they come up in the House.

For the last few years, I have asked questions which must be answered with a "yes" or "no" response. Answering in this way is not easy, but it does more accurately reflect the types of votes I have to cast.

When a bill comes up on the House floor, there is no room for a "maybe" vote.

Over the past decade, we have covered a variety of legislative issues on the questionnaire and I am pleased that approximately 20,000 South Mississippians have shared their opinions each year in this way.

In my 1983 questionnaire, such developing issues as deregulation of natural gas prices, welfare, constitutional amendments, defense spending, and catastrophic illness insurance coverage will be included.

In addition, I will be asking questions like:

Would you favor reductions in federal spending to restrain deficits even if it meant cutting back on some programs which affect you personally?

Would you favor a freeze on overall federal spending at no more than the rate of inflation?

Do you support social security proposals as recommended by the National Commission on Social Security Reform?

The questionnaire will have a response card on which I urge you to mark your yes-or-no decisions. Then, just tear the card at the perforation and mail it back to me by March 15 so that your opinions will be included in the tabulation.

Mississippi Gumbo Festival
The 5th annual Mississippi Gumbo Festival in Washington scored a big hit last week as the folks from Natchez, Crossing and Hancock County served up healthy portions of chicken and seafood gumbo to appreciative guests.

It was my pleasure to host the event, which has become a solid showcase for Mississippi's traditional hospitality. Invited guests included Mississippians living in Washington, members of Congress and Senators, Cabinet officials and others.

With the hard work of the Hancock County gumbo specialists, the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation and the Mississippi Division of Tourism, this year's event was the most spectacular yet.

The formal opening of the Waveland Public Library Sunday at 3 p.m. is the culmination of years of work by city and county officials and library system trustees to provide library services for Waveland's citizens.

Although library service to Hancock County began in 1934 as a Works Progress Administration project, it wasn't until 1969 that a public library was established in Waveland.

During the 1960's and 70's, local government officials, library trustees, and citizens were working to secure funds to build a headquarters library on US-90 property acquired for the library system.

Efforts were also being made to provide service to outlying communities with a bookmobile borrowed from the Mississippi Library Commission.

When a new bookmobile was purchased, the borrowed vehicle was parked in front of Waveland City Hall and opened on July 21, 1969 as a public library.

It was soon apparent that larger quarters and longer hours were required, and in 1971 the Waveland Library moved into rooms provided by the City of Waveland on the second floor of City Hall.

During the early 1970's the library system received federal funding through the Mississippi Library Commission to build a headquarters library.

While the new facility was being constructed, Waveland officials completely remodeled a building on Coleman Avenue for the Waveland Library.

It was opened on July 3, 1978, one week after the headquarters building was dedicated.

Within a year officials of Waveland and the library system applied to the Mississippi Library Commission for state revenue sharing funds to renovate and enlarge the Waveland branch.

While waiting for word on the application, the library system purchased a trailer and opened a branch library in the Kiln community in 1977.

In 1980, a building on Hwy. 603 was purchased with county revenue sharing funds and opened as a permanent Kiln branch.

A year later word was received that state funds would be available to enlarge, renovate, and furnish the Waveland Library.

The City of Waveland, Hancock County, the library system, and American Legion Post No. 77 provided the $78,000 needed to match the state money on a 50/50 basis as required by the grant.

Construction was begun in July of 1982 at a cost of $126,000 for the building; $9,500 for architectural and other fees; and $20,000 for furniture and equipment.

A meeting room, lobby, and circulation area was added, doubling the building's size. The interior and exterior of the original building was renovated. Central air and heat was installed in the addition and new carpet and tile floors were installed throughout the building.

Shelving with oak end panels as well as oak tables, chairs, and circulation units were purchased along with other equipment and furnishings.

The library was opened for business in January, but because of delays in furniture shipments, the formal opening had to be postponed until Sunday.

On behalf of the City of Waveland, the County Board of Supervisors, and the library system trustees and staff, the public is cordially invited to join in celebrating the formal opening of the Waveland Public Library.

John Longo, mayor of Waveland, said his citizens of Waveland and all Hancock County can be proud.

The ribbon cutting ceremony is set for 3 p.m., followed by an open house and reception until 5 p.m.

An art exhibit by Hancock county artists will be on display in the meeting room of the library.

Another step that people at high risk for flu can take to reduce their chances of becoming seriously ill is to stop smoking.

That's good advice for anyone, in any season, but of immediate concern is a recent report, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, that indicates a greater danger from influenza for cigarette smokers.

Everyone with medical conditions likely to be complicated by influenza should be vaccinated annually before the cold-weather flu season begins.

Since the vaccine requires about four weeks (after the shot) to take full effect, or to provide maximum protection, persons who have yet to be vaccinated should see their doctors right away.

from the Surgeon General

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES • Public Health Service
C. EVERETT KOOP, MD

Hypothermia and influenza: two cold-weather hazards for the elderly. Again this winter, as outdoor temperatures plummet, many elderly Americans will be exposed to temperatures so low that they develop hypothermia, a condition in which the body's internal temperature drops to 95° or lower.

If not detected and treated promptly, hypothermia can be fatal. Because older people are particularly sensitive to the cold, even mildly cold temperatures of 60° and 65° can be dangerous.

At highest risk of developing hypothermia are the relatively small number of aged persons who, for unknown reasons, can neither feel cold nor shiver and so cannot produce body heat when they need it.

Also vulnerable are those who have diseases that limit their activity or mental awareness, who have circulation problems or who are taking certain types of drugs such as phenothiazines, that are used to treat anxiety, agitation and nausea.

Another threat to the elderly at this time of the year is influenza, which usually strikes during cold weather and strikes hardest at persons 65 and older and at individuals of any age who have certain chronic medical conditions, among them diabetes, diseases of the heart, lungs and kidneys, severe anemia and illnesses (or medications) that lower the body's resistance to disease. Since 1968, influenza epidemics have accounted for an estimated 200,000 deaths in this country.

Guarding against hypothermia: Older people can act to prevent hypothermia by dressing warmly, eating properly and keeping active. Because hypothermia often starts during sleep, they should wear warm nightclothes and use enough blankets to keep warm. Older people who are taking medicines should ask their doctors whether those medicines might affect their body temperature or their ability to feel cold.

It's a good idea for friends and relatives to look in on elderly persons frequently when the weather is cold. Signs of hypothermia are changes in appearance or behavior: slow, sometimes irregular heart beat; shivering; speech; shallow; slow breathing; sluggishness and confusion.

Anyone who detects signs of hypothermia in an elderly person should send for emergency medical help at once, then keep the victim warm, by wrapping him or her in a blanket and perhaps providing small quantities of warm food and non-alcoholic drink, until help arrives.

Preventing influenza and its complications: Everyone with medical conditions likely to be complicated by influenza should be vaccinated annually before the cold-weather flu season begins.

Since the vaccine requires about four weeks (after the shot) to take full effect, or to provide maximum protection, persons who have yet to be vaccinated should see their doctors right away.

Another step that people at high risk for flu can take to reduce their chances of becoming seriously ill is to stop smoking.

New alcoholism treatment center to open in Jackson

Christopher C. Kraft Jr., a director of Lifemark Corporation and past director of the NASA Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center, will help launch the opening of the new Lifemark Recovery Center-Jackson at a noon luncheon dedication Friday at the Center, South Frontage Road, Jackson, Mississippi.

Participating in the formal dedication with Dr. Kraft will be William H. Longfield, Lifemark's executive vice president for operations. Invited guests include civic, business and industry leaders of Greater Jackson and members of the press.

The event marks the opening of Lifemark's first health care facility built in Mississippi. The new 40-bed freestanding center is specifically designed for professional treatment of alcoholism and other chemical dependencies.

The luncheon dedication begins a series of weekend activities planned by Lifemark to which the public is invited. The events will provide the opportunity for people of the community to see and tour the new treatment center before patients are admitted on Monday, March 7.

On Saturday, March 5, at 9:30 a.m., Lifemark will sponsor a kick-off breakfast featuring Chaplain Rock Stack, manager of Clinical-Pastoral Education for the Hazelden Foundation in Center City, Minnesota.

He will discuss the spiritual aspects of recovery from alcoholism. At 2 p.m. in the afternoon, a two-hour workshop on "The Family in Recovery" will be conducted by Rokelle Lerner, director of Children Are People, Inc., St. Paul, Minnesota.

Ms. Lerner specializes in working with children from alcoholic environments.

An open AA Speakers Meeting will convene in the evening at 8 p.m. Anyone interested in alcoholism and its treatment is invited to attend.

Sunday, March 6, between 1 and 5 p.m., Lifemark will host an open house and provide tours of the facility, food and beverages for the public.

Another open AA Speakers Meeting takes place at 8 p.m.

Lifemark Recovery Centers, a division of Lifemark Corporation, operates alcohol treatment programs in seven hospitals and three recovery facilities including the new center in Jackson.

Cooking up a storm

By Katy McGuire Caire

Many crawfish devotees insist that there is no better way to eat the tasty "mudbugs" than boiled, along with potatoes, onions and corn—highly seasoned, of course, and washed down with cold, cold beer—and many of us are enjoying that treat these days, with the crawfish so abundant.

But for a tastier than tasty dish, if you can manage to save some boiled crawfish out for the hungry horde is "Crawfish Etouffee" (translated—"Smothered Crawfish Bayou Style").

Braising or "smothering" a seafood, meats or poultry is a cooking method which Creole and Cajun cooks have brought to perfection. When food is "smothered" in this way, the cook uses very little water or broth or stock or wine, just enough to cover a piece of meat, for instance, and simmers or smothers it very slowly over a low flame in a heavy, tightly covered pot, making sure to keep it short of the boiling point at all times.

And one of the very tastiest of these smothered dishes is: CRAWFISH ETOUFFEE

First, of course, pick the meat out of the tails, trying not to munch as you go, or there won't be any left. There are many versions of crawfish etouffee, just as there are of gumbo and jambalaya and such, but I like best the real Bayou Cajun version. Some cooks add tomatoes, others make a roux—that's the fun of Cajun cookery, just stir it all together in the pot, according to your fancy and what's in your larder.

That's the sort of recipe we have today, amounts and quantities depending upon the amount of crawfish on hand. For each pound of the cleaned crawfish tails you need three or four green onions, with their tops, chopped, and also chopped parsley for garnish, black pepper and salt, if you wish... and of course, a dash of hot sauce and a little oil.

Pour into your heavy skillet just enough cooking oil to cover the bottom of the pot and heat until smoking hot, then add the onions and saute them a bit—and if you've any of the crawfish fat on hand, toss that in with a little water, for extra flavor. (The fat is the thick brown fluid from the heads of the crawfish).

Add the crawfish tails, the black pepper and perhaps a dash of cayenne. Cover the pot tightly, and let the whole business simmer of "smother" for about 15 minutes. Don't even peek! As the crawfish smother in their own juices, they deepen in color, just as if you had added tomato sauce, which some cooks do—but along the bayous of Louisiana for the most part, cooks prefer just the flavor of the crawfish cooked down in their own juices. Increase the quantities as needed, depending on the number to be served, with hot rice as the accompaniment.

IT'S JUST MY NERVES

This is the frequent complaint of many people who were told to take it easy for awhile—it was "just their nerves." Our clinic files are bulging with just such records. In the majority of cases, it was just their nerves, but how important are those nerves for the health of your body?

Dr. Wm. L. Powell, we find that, in many instances, nervousness first arises within the body because of sick, irritated, compressed impinged nerves, which a Chiropractic examination and spinal adjustments release. Then gentle, relaxing, scientifically applied spinal adjustments release the pressure causing the sick nerves and health and vitality return to the body, bringing with it the pep and energy and zest for life associated with good health.

Bay City Council votes wastewater rate increase of $2-5 per month

By BREARD SNEELLINGS
Residents of Bay St. Louis will be getting an increase in their sewerage bills beginning in April.
The rate hike will be $2 per month for individuals and $5 a month for businesses.
The rate hike was announced by councilman James Thrifflay at Tuesday's special meeting of the Bay St. Louis City Council, following a five-minute executive session behind closed doors.
Following the executive session, council president Harry Farve directed Thrifflay to state what the council had decided.
Thrifflay then stated that the council had voted on the rate hike, effective in April, which would be the first sewerage rate hike in the city since April, 1979.
Thrifflay explained that the increase was in order to fund the expenses of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District, because the City of Bay St. Louis has a contract to receive sewerage service from the district.
The decision to increase sewerage rates followed a month of debate by the council over the actual need or amount of such an increase.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, a member of the wastewater district, had said at the district's budget meeting on Feb. 2 that a rate increase was necessary and that he foresaw no problems in the Bay council passing the rate hike.
However, the council had several objections to the district's projected budget of $110,000, voted on at the Feb. 2 meeting.
Councilmen Gene Taylor and Sheldon Seuzeneau this week met with Waveland Mayor John Longo, who is district president, and Taylor stated that he was satisfied the $80,000 annual district expense expected from the city would be used to pay the salaries of five district employees and help pay the cost of necessary equipment.
The district is billing the city monthly for the $60,000 figure based on a 60-40 user ratio, with the City of Waveland having 2,100 users and the City of Bay St. Louis having 2,500 users.
The executive session began shortly after City Clerk Edward Favre told the council the district had sent three bills, totalling $15,318, for sewerage service for the months January through March.

The January and February bills had already come due.
The council then voted to pay the bills for February and March, and a portion of January's bill, since the district didn't ratify the city's contract with the district until Jan. 18.
Money from a three-quarter mill property tax, collected a year and a half ago, will be used to pay the two bills and a portion of the third.
Edward Favre brought out that finding monies for the ensuing wastewater district bills would be a problem.
Harry Farve then called for the executive session, and five minutes later, the rate increase was announced.
In other business, William Corkern of Jim Best Construction of Baton Rouge told the council that the work will be completed this week on phase two of the Housing and Urban Development-financed $375,000 project to build gaslines to some 565 homes in Bay St. Louis.

He also stated that the contract called for the gaslines to stop at the property line, and that another contract was necessary to extend them to the meters.
The council decided to wait and see what monies, if any, would be left from the project before going ahead with possible city funding for extending the lines to the meters, and Taylor brought out that bids would have to be advertised for again.
Also, the council voted to seek bids on repair of some 12 recent street cave-ins or potholes, either individually or collectively.

Council makes changes in zoning notification

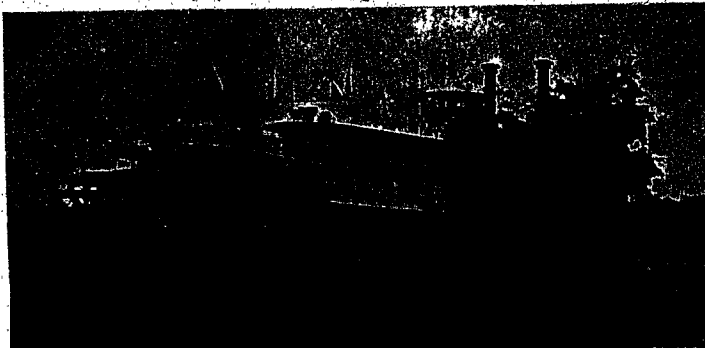

The Bay St. Louis City Council has changed the way it notifies the public about potential zoning changes.
The council announced the change last week after it rejected a zoning change that had been recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission.
The commission had voted on Feb. 21 in favor of rezoning property at the corner of Victoria and Turner Streets to allow construction of a four-plex rental building.
Commissioner William Tate said he thought the change would enhance the property and the area. Other commissioners voiced similar opinions.
During the city council meeting the next evening, Michael Ferry of 508 Victoria St. presented a petition signed by 47 residents of the area who objected to the zoning change.

The council voted against the recommended zoning change from R1 to R3.
Ferry said many residents were unaware of the proposed action and asked that the city take steps to notify the public in the future.
When a zoning change is considered, the request is advertised twice in local newspapers, a public hearing is held, and letters of notification are sent to residents living within 300 feet of the property in question.
In addition to that procedure, the city council now will place a large sign announcing the zoning request on the property in question.

Randolph reveals reason for not recommending Hill

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Terrell Randolph, Hancock County superintendent of education, in a motion accepted into the minutes of the County School Board revealed his reason for not recommending re-employment of Harlin Hill, County School District programs coordinator.
But the board reinstated Hill for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year and heard the matter in spite of Randolph's motion asking the officials to appoint a 'non-interested hearing officer.'
Johnny Banks, a board member, was the only official voting against the majority decision.
A controversy surrounding Hill's employment surfaced several weeks ago when Randolph did not recommend the board rehire two district office employees for another year—Hill and Brenda Ladner, district head bookkeeper.
Ladner was 'terminated' as an employee on Feb. 8 due to a lack of a recommendation to rehire her by the superintendent.
However, Hill objected to Randolph's action and requested the hearing based on the fact he is a certified employee whose contract with the district does not expire until the end of the current school year.
At that time, Randolph said he was not obligated by state law to publicly reveal a reason for not recommending the two for re-employment.
The board Monday night conducted a termination hearing in executive session as requested by Hill's attorney, Yvonne Silis, and met for almost two hours before rendering a public decision.
The press and general public were excluded from the closed meeting which included the board, Hill, Silis, Randolph, Board Attorney Joseph Gex and a court reporter.
Bill Gibson, a Bay St. Louis attorney hired by Randolph, was also excluded from the executive session.
While the closed meeting was underway, Hill emerged from the meeting and told reporters he wanted the hearing to be public, but the Hancock County Grand Jury in January ordered him not to publicly air his situation for six months.
Just prior to the closed meeting, the board accepted into the minutes a written motion from Gibson on behalf of Randolph requesting the board recuse itself from hearing the matter and appoint the hearing officer.
Randolph's motion states Hill 'improperly handled travel expense funds' during July 13-20.
Several board members traveled to and attended the Southern Regional School Board Association Convention in Nashville, Tenn., July 15-19, the motion lists.

The Grand Jury in January indicted Woodrow and Louie Ladner, former board members, both on fraud charges alleging they falsely represented themselves as Hill and James Pair, assistant superintendent, submitted travel vouchers using those names; and received $500 each in travel expenses.
"Specifically that Mr. Hill, although collecting travel expense funds in receiving, endorsing, and converting to cash, an advance travel expense voucher and in connection therewith, submitting a travel reimbursement form for travel he did not actually perform," the motion states.
Regarding the request asking the board to recuse itself in the matter, motion states, "...the board, as it was then constituted, approved the travel expenses and in fact authorized the travel of Mr. Harlin Hill, and in fact, certain members of the board now serving did in fact attend said conference, and would have knowledge of whether or not Mr. Hill did in fact, attend said conference."
In other business at the 6:30 p.m. recess meeting at the Dan M. Russell Sr. Memorial Youth Center in Bay St. Louis, the board:
—Approved releasing Denise Riley, Kristan Reynolds, Debra Ann Boyd and Wendy Giveans from the district to attend classes in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District;
—Approved cancellation of a one-acre 16th Section residential land lease with Cora Falcon in the Standard Community;
—Approved a leave of absence for the remainder of the school year as requested by Brenda Whitfield, a Hancock North Central Elementary School special education aide and bus driver;
—Approved temporarily employing Mae Cuevas to fill Whitfield's position;
—Approved paying $245 to Jeep Ladner for labor and materials for installation of a septic tank sewer line for the Gulfview Elementary School coach's house in the Lakeshore Community;
—Accepted Jewel Prince's resignation as HNC bus driver effective Feb. 25.

STEAMBOAT ADVENTURE—Marilyn Jones, 16, of Natchez placed fifth in the Mississippi Junior 4-H Photography contest with this picture entitled "The Natchez Steamboat Docks." Marilyn, who also won third place in the same contest with another entry, shot this photo from historical Natchez Under-the-Hill. She enjoyed her ride on the paddle-wheel boat, but said the most exciting part was losing her mother and exploring on her own.

Suit.....CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Lucien Gex said he recommended the city defend against the suit because if the plaintiffs are successful, the case would set a precedent leaving the way open for all property owners to reclaim undeveloped rights-of-ways.
"Many streets in Bay St. Louis and Waveland have not yet been opened. When the city grows you may want to open these streets," he stated.
He noted the land and improvement company in 1897 dedicated rights-of-ways for many streets in both cities—some have been constructed and others have not yet been built.
Based on Hancock Chancery Court records, the plaintiffs allege they 'on numerous occasions' have demanded the city open the streets, but Waveland party in the area in question based on Chancery Court documents filed by Emile Gex's attorney, Lampton O. Williams of Williams, Williams and Montgomery of Poplarville.

officials 'wholly refused to consider the same and has in fact indicated to the plaintiffs that it has no intention to open said streets.'
In addition, the civil action suit documents state the 'protracted non-use' of the rights-of-ways 'has ripened into an unequivocal surrender of their public character without a formal order of closure by either of said defendants.'
The result, the plaintiffs charge, is the rights-of-way 'have been lost by abandonment for a period in excess of ten years' and the adjacent owners have regained ownership.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A public meeting will be conducted by the Bay St. Louis Board of Adjustment at 7:00 p.m., on Friday, March 11, 1983, in the City Hall of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, to consider a variance to the Bay St. Louis Zoning Ordinance relative to Lot 367, Third Ward, City of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi, (located at 107 Citizen Street). Said variance concerns a reduction in required lot size after the lot is subdivided, to allow construction of a smaller dwelling.

All interested agencies and citizens are invited to attend.

Given under my hand and seal of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, this the 2nd of March, 1983.

Tigers to in Spring football

The Bay St. Louis School Tigers varsity squad will meet the Beach High Bears in Tiger Stadium.

Tiger Coach Snuff emphasized the game begin at 7 p.m. rather than 7:30 p.m. as previously reported.

Smith said the kick will be waived during the event.

Play will begin with the 20-yard line of kickoff, and will be advanced 35 yards of punts, he explained.

"Special teams will play a role in the contest with a waiver provision," he said.

"We are incorporating feature into the Spring primarily to reduce possibility of injury so early in the season."

Tickets for adults students will be $1 at the door.

The teams will play 12-minute quarters.

Bay High girls track team seeks another title

Team on win streak

The Bay High girls track team, coached by Willie Bradley, have won six straight conference titles, competing in the Gulf Coast, Pascagoula and Deep South Conferences.

The team has 11 conference titles in the last 13 years, and six district titles in that time, with four runner-up district titles to their credit.

Girls track began at Bay High in 1970, and coach Bradley feels he has another district title contender this season.

Since 1970, his girls team has won 64 meets against only 20 losses, with most of the losses being second and third place finishes in multi-team meets.

The team opens its season on March 22 in the Picayune Relays.

The rest of the schedule finds them at Pass Point Relays in Moss Point on March 28, in the Biloxi Relays on March 31, the Merchant Marine Relays at Moss Point on April 5 and the Ocean Springs Relays on April 8.

The conference meet is April 12-13 at an undetermined site, followed by the district preliminaries on April 21, the district finals on April 25, and the state meet on May 7.

The Bay St. Louis High School Tigers varsity football squad will meet the Long Beach High Bears in a Spring Game Thursday at 7 p.m. in Tiger Stadium.

Tiger Coach Sauffy Smith emphasized the game will begin at 7 p.m. rather than 7:30 p.m. as previously reported.

Smith said the kicking game will be waived during the event.

Play will begin with first downs at the 20-yard-line in lieu of kickoffs, and the ball will be advanced 35 yards in lieu of punts, he explained.

"Special teams will have no role in the contest under this waiver provision," the coach said.

"We are incorporating this feature into the Spring Game primarily to reduce the possibility of injury since it's so early in the season," Smith added.

Tickets for adults and students will be $1 at the gate. The teams will play four 12-minute quarters.

SPORTS

Spring football game slated tonight at Gulf Coast JC

The Gulf Coast Junior College Bulldogs, six weeks into spring football practice, hope to bring it all together in the annual Blue-Gold intrasquad game tonight.

Kickoff is at 7 p.m. in A.L. May Memorial Stadium at Perkinston Campus.

Coach George Sekul said 68 players — 32 of them walk-ons — are working out daily. There also are tryout sessions for high school seniors, and players from out-of-state.

"What we are trying to do is to rebuild the 1982 team that tied Northwest (Junior College) for the state co-championship and finished the season with a 10-1-1 record," Sekul said.

He said seven of the walk-ons have been impressive and are candidates for the team.

They are wide receivers Mike Fields and Wayne Westbrook from Ocean Springs; center Jack Fiegler of Gulfport; offensive guard Ed Jackson of Stone County; linebacker John Boyd of East Central; defensive back Troy Kimmer of Minnesota; offensive tackle Robert Morgan and linebacker Russell Stapp, both of d'Iberville.

Sekul said 10 lettermen are expected to see action in the intrasquad game. On the Blue, offensive team are center Ken Bourgeois, John Ehart, New Orleans, La.; tight end Joey Anderson, Pascagoula; quarterback Bruce Eubanks, Lucedale; running back Norvell Tate, Mobile, Ala.; and punter Bobby Murrain, Ocean Springs. Playing for the Gold defense

Others in the lineups: Blue offense — split end Gary Taylor, Long Beach; Tackles Phil Dixon, Moss Point and Ken Breal, Biloxi; guards Jody Theobald Riverdale, La. and Steve Elrod, Gulfport; running back Eddie Collins, Gulfport; and fullback Teddy Weathersby, Gulfport. Gold defense — linebackers Levis Moore and Stoney Pleasant, both of Moss Point; tackles Thad Wells, Moss Point; Steve Davis, Pascagoula; and free safety Jeff Loftus, Long Beach.

Bowling for senior citizens

Gulfport Triangle Lanes is offering a bowling day for senior citizens on March 9, from noon to 4 p.m.

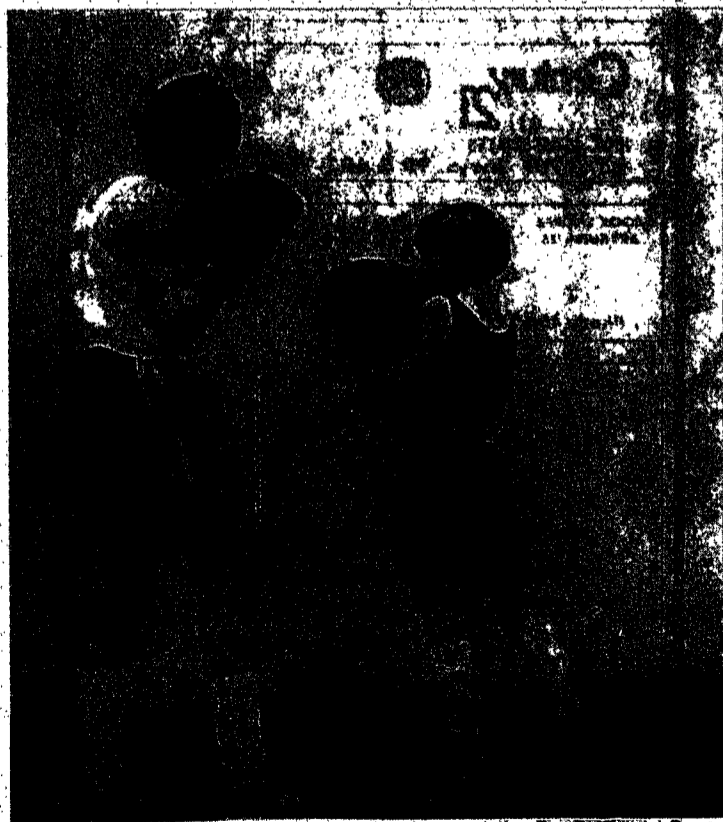

Jean Bell at the Information and Referral Office of the South Mississippi Planning and Development District in Bay St. Louis is looking for senior citizens from Bay-Waveland who want to bowl at the lanes on that day.

There will be free van transportation, free bowling shoes and cokes and one free game. For information, call 467-9291.

PIK DEADLINE

Farmers have only a few weeks left to sign up for the payment-in-kind program. The sign-up period ends March 11, and will not be extended, according to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Farmers will not have the opportunity to change their mind and sign up after this deadline. However, those who have already enrolled and those who enroll before March 11 will have the option of withdrawing or changing their enrollment without penalty provided it is done before enrollment ends," Gennin said.

Severe weather conditions may have caused some problems for farmers around the country. However, recurring storms or any other problems will not change the sign-up deadline, he said.

The PIK program is designed to bring supplies more in line with demand to improve the farm economy. It encourages farmers to further reduce 1983 crops of wheat, corn, sorghum, upland cotton and rice from the previously announced acreage reduction and land diversion programs. In return for participating, farmers will receive an amount of the commodity as payment for reducing planted acreage.

All farmers for which a 1983 acreage base and yield has been established for wheat, feed grain upland cotton and rice under the previously announced farm programs are eligible to participate in PIK.

The ASCS official said farmers who would like to see an improvement in the market situation should seriously consider the program and do their part toward reducing the surplus, that is hurting the economy.

"We urge farmers to sign up now and not miss the opportunity by waiting or expecting the deadline to be extended. The sign-up period will end at the close of business on March 11."

DON'T PANIC—"The Hitch Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy" can be seen at 6:30 p.m. Saturdays on the Mississippi ETV Network. Mark Wing-Davey plays the two-headed, triple-armed Zaphod Beeblebrox, and Sandra Dickinson is his girl friend Trillian in the seven-episode series.

Borg-Warner reports 1982 earnings drop

Borg-Warner Corporation reports its earnings for the fourth quarter and year were off 9.8 percent and 2.7 percent, respectively, from the records of a year ago.

The company operates a plastics manufacturing plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park in Hancock County.

Fourth quarter earnings were $48.3 million, or $1.10 per share compared with $52.8 million or $1.22 per share in 1981. Sales were $605 million compared with $790 million in the year earlier quarter.

For the year, earnings were $167.4 million, or $3.90 per share, down from the record $172.1 million, or $4 per share in 1981. Sales were a record $3.2 billion, a 2.3 percent increase from restated 1981 volume.

James F. Beré, Borg-Warner chairman and chief executive, said that "the success of the company's service operations, a reduction in inventory levels and lower operating costs balanced the effects of the weakness in the general economy and the sharp decline of affiliate earnings."

Béré noted that earnings from consolidated operations increased 30 percent, helped by the company's LIFO inventory liquidation which reduced cost of sales by approximately 51 cents per share after-tax and by the strong performance of the Protective Services group.

Borg-Warner's service groups continued their steady earnings gains. Protective Services, buoyed by the recent Burns acquisition, posted an earnings increase of 64 percent, while earnings for the Financial Services group increased 12 percent from 1981.

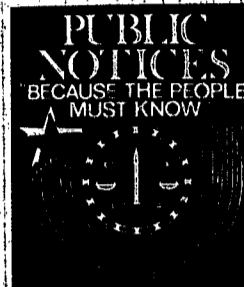

Earnings from affiliates, including Borg-Warner's 19 percent interest in Hughes Tool, 22 percent interest in Echlin, Inc. and 24 percent interest in Ameco Inc., accounted for $32 million in earnings compared with $29 million in 1981.

The decline is due to a drop in Hughes Tool earnings and to losses of affiliates in Mexico.

Béré said this year he expected an improvement in the economic picture. "There are reasons for optimism," he noted. "Interest and inflation rates are down, and the auto and housing markets are up. And through it's likely the capital goods markets and the oil equipment market will remain soft, I think this year we'll see substantial improvement in the economy. Fortunately, Borg-Warner should perform well even if the recovery is only a mild one."

Waveland Scouts stage Blue And Gold Banquet

Cub and Webelos Scouts from Waveland Pack 630 held a Blue and Gold Banquet Feb. 2 at the Senior Citizens Hall in Bay St. Louis in observance of scouting's 73rd birthday.

The meal was a potluck dinner served buffet style amid blue and gold decorations.

Levert Bird of Bay St. Louis, who serves as Pack Committee Chairman, conducted the program as follows:

The Cubs presented the opening ceremony by pouring blue and gold liquids into a central melting pot as they cited what each color stands for. These liquids were then mixed together and a blue and gold neckerchief and a blue and gold den flag were pulled from the pot depicting the mixing of the colors for a strong and enduring unit.

The Webelos then provided an amusing skit as entertainment.

Cub Brodie Forrest performed a magic trick using one of the mothers as his assistant.

Following Bird's presentation of several badges and awards earned by the boys, Joe Ellington, District Executive, shared a few comments with the group.

Webelos Scouts, Chris Heaps, Ian Wilson, P.J. Mauffray, and Thomas Sones then presented a Four-Freedom Ceremony in closing.

Attending the banquet along with their families and their leaders were: Brodie Forrest, Thomas Sones, Syth Stephens, Scott Rogers, Tommy Grisham, P.J. Mauffray, Sal Harmon, Chris Heaps, Billy Saunders, Ian Wilson, and Tracey Ash.

The Cub and Webelos Scouting programs are a part of the Boy Scouts of America for boys 8, 9, and 10 years of age.

This program was adopted by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in 1953 and has been an on-going part of the church's curriculum for young boys since that time.

Pack 630 is sponsored and chartered by the Waveland Ward of the church.

Local leaders of the church encourage boys from all denominations to participate in their program.

A special thanks is issued from the Pack members to Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams for his help in making event possible.

City public schools urge early registration planning

Bay St. Louis and Waveland public elementary schools will conduct pre-school registration from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. May 6 in the first grade rooms at North Bay and Waveland Elementary.

The reason for making this announcement at this time is so that parents can be sure to have a certified birth certificate and a blue slip from the Health Department by the required date school officials explained.

No student will be able to register without this information. The student must be six-years-old on or before Sept. 1, 1983.

On this registration day first grade students will be staying home.

Pre-schoolers will come and register and return home.

Parents or guardians must remain with the child during registration.

When registering, parents should go first to the first grade rooms marked with the letter that begins the child's last name.

Children registering will be screened for speech, vision and hearing at this time.

Some general information that will be needed includes:

—Parents' name, address and phone number —Child's place of birth.

—Parents' place of employment and address and phone number.

—Name of the community in which the family lives.

—Two emergency telephone numbers.

—Name of the kindergarten attended, if any.

Parents should check now to see if their child has a certified birth certificate and not a copy. The County Health Department in Bay St. Louis will provide a blue slip before May 6 if a child is to enter school at Bay St. Louis or Waveland public schools in September, 1983.

For information call Roger James, principal, North Bay Elementary, 467-4757; or James Baldree, principal, Waveland Elementary, 467-6630.

Growing Child

P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902 (317) 423-2624

GOOD MANNERS
Good manners are not necessarily "formal manners"—or even "company manners."

Good manners are simple courtesies—please, thank you, excuse me. Whatever courtesies you decide are important to teach your children, the essential part is caring and consideration, points out Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

A child's manners help her develop desirable attitudes as well as reflect her attitudes towards others. The child who is trained to say "please" and "thank you" may not, at age three, be any more considerate than a child who has not been taught these courtesies.

But as her good manners bring her praise and smiles, she becomes pleased with herself. This in turn makes her feel more friendly toward others.

Through the practice of good manners she begins to develop the attitudes which courtesy should reflect.

These attitudes and the learned courtesies are further reinforced as the child sees them practiced by her parents. She accepts her parent's valuation of others as individuals worthy of consideration and she adopts the outward forms which are the reflection of this attitude.

Thus the child learns to express appreciation in ways which are pleasant to others. She learns to make her desires known considerately. She learns good manners in much the same way that she learns to share and take turns. These, too, are ways of expressing the same attitudes of care and consideration.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter is $11.95.

State's coop program includes Bay students

Andrew L. Haas and Drew J. Demboski, both of Bay St. Louis, are participating in cooperative education program at Mississippi State University.

Haas and Demboski are pursuing BS degrees in petroleum and biological engineering, respectively. At the same time Haas is working as a co-op student during alternating semesters in Philadelphia with Professional Geophysics, Inc.

Demboski is working alternating semesters in Pascagoula with F/Sec 2 National Marine Fisheries Service-Mississippi Laboratories.

The cooperative education program is a five-year educational program which allows a student in various fields of accountancy, agriculture and home economics, arts and sciences, business and industry, education, engineering, and forestry to affiliate with a business, industrial, or governmental firm while enrolled at Mississippi State University.

By combining practical experience with theoretical training, this program provides the student with a superior education. Once all of the degree requirements are complete.

Gifted students to explore mind power

Mind Power will be explored by fourth through eighth grade students in the University of Southern Mississippi's Summer Gifted Studies program.

The summer residential program, in its fifth year, has a deadline for applications of March 31, according to Dr. Frances Karnes, director of the Center for Gifted Studies.

Fourth through sixth grades will explore the relationship between the physical aspects of the brain and the mind, the seat of intellectual function.

Through lectures, discussions, and activities students will learn about the capabilities of the brain and the power of the mind in the processes of learning.

Students in grades seven and eight will engage in the neurophysiological study of the brain, its structure and function and its relationship to the psychological ability of the mind.

Learning theory and processes, individual learning styles and learning efficiency involving thought and memory will be investigated. Emphasis will be placed on critical thinking, creativity and research skills.

The program will consist of two sessions: Session I, June 5-17; Session II, June 19-July 1.

Leisure time and small group activities with other gifted youth will include field trips, swimming, tennis, other sports activities, movies, museum visits, as well as musical and cultural events.

Students will be housed in dormitories on the Hattiesburg campus. Instructional activities will be held in university classrooms. Qualified teachers, supervisors and counselors will be with the students at all times.

Deadline for application to both sessions is March 31. Notification of acceptance will be mailed to parents by April 10, with the deadline for payment of tuition on April 20.

Any gifted student entering grades 5 through 9 in the fall of 1983 is eligible for the program. An IQ score of 120 or above on an individually administered intelligence test (WISC-R or Stanford-Binet) is required for acceptance. Applications will be considered according to the order in which they are received.

Applications may be obtained through local school personnel or by contacting Dr. Frances A. Karnes, Center for Gifted Studies, Southern Station Box 8207, Hattiesburg, Ms 39401 (601)266-5236.

It Makes Plain Common Sense

Conservation does.

It's common sense to conserve our precious natural resources. Natural gas, for example. With care this clean, efficient, easily-transportable fuel will continue to be the energy base of the industrial Gulf South, from today to the year 2000 and way beyond.

There's little sign that any other source of energy will take its place as the most economical fuel ever found in great quantities. Actually it was the "cheap" fuel that spurred on the Gulf South's economic development.

When gas cost a nickel per MCF (1000 cubic feet), waste was measured in pennies. Now it's measured in dollars and hundreds of dollars.

Daily, as this company buys long-term supplies of gas for distribution to the Gulf South, it faces steadily increasing prices. As much as any company, United Gas knows the cost of waste. Conserve whenever, and wherever you can. The natural gas we save today will be needed tomorrow.

Public speaking skills offered in 4-H program

A two-year-old learning to talk gets all the encouragement that parents, grandparents and relatives can create. Hugs and kisses, applause and eager attention greet every utterance.

"But once the chattering begins coming by the paragraph, the novelty is gone and interest fades," said Jim Yonge, 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Soon dad must be shaken away from the newspaper and requests must be repeated several times before the youngster gets attention," Yonge said.

"When school starts, the child learns quickly that talking out of turn can have negative results. When the teen years arrive, the complaint 'nobody wants to listen to me,' becomes common."

The specialist said this process is a stage almost everyone has been through and it's not anyone's fault. He titles it "Just one of those fates of life."

Yonge said that speaking responsibly and maturely, from an informed point of view is a skill, and like all skills it must be learned.

"No one wants to listen to idle jabbering, or the ill-informed, half-baked ideas of a know-it-all," he said. "But most of us are interested in the opinions and views of other intelligent, reasonable people."

Yonge said the 4-H Public Speaking Program provides the instruction, materials and information to help young people learn to speak responsibly and in a meaningful manner. He added that 4-H also provides those long-lost incentives toward speech: attentive audiences, applause, ribbons, prizes, and even hugs and kisses from coaches and parents.

"Being involved in a 4-H project gives members something specific to develop into a speech," he continued.

"Topics are developed for specific audiences and 4-Hers prepare and deliver speeches at local club meetings, county and state contests and to interested groups."

Information on 4-H public speaking and other 4-H projects can be obtained from the local 4-H youth agent.

St. Paul Mission to open

A Parish Mission will be conducted in St. Paul's Parish from March 13 through 17.

Father Joseph Mitchell and Father Stephen Mudd, priests of the Passionist Community, will conduct the Mission.

They will preach at all Masses on the weekend of March 12-13.

There will be Mass and Homily each morning at 8 a.m.

The Principal Mission Service will be each evening at 7:30 p.m. and will focus on Scripture, preaching and prayer.

The Sacrament of Reconciliation will be celebrated after each service.

A special Mass and Anointing of the Sick and Elderly are scheduled Wednesday, March 16 at 3 p.m.

The Thursday night service will conclude the Mission with a candlelight service and renewal of Baptismal vows. This will be a time for spiritual reassessment and commitment to Christ, the Mission leaders said.

First impressions count heavily on job interview

First impressions can be an all-important step for young people who are interviewing for a job.

"How well you represent yourself in the job interview may determine whether you get the chance to demonstrate your job skills," said Dr. Ann Jarratt, a 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Jarratt advises young people in Mississippi about career choices.

"Your appearance creates the first and most obvious impression on the interviewer," she said.

"The clothes you wear are important. Clean well-pressed clothes and well-kept shoes are absolutely necessary for making a favorable impression. Posture, facial expressions and overall grooming are also important. All these things make up a total appearance."

"Posture and body language tell an interviewer a lot about you before you ever open your mouth," Mrs. Jarratt said. "A person who walks into an interview with shoulders squared and head held high suggests they feel good about themselves, and have something positive to offer. A friendly smile, a firm hand shake, and correctly pronouncing the interviewer's name, complete the picture of confidence."

Mrs. Jarratt said it will take more than a good first impression to get a job offer. She said the prospect must know about the company, its products, size, image and goals.

"Know about the job for which you are applying and be able to show how your skills would fit in and benefit the organization," she said. "You should also show a willingness to be trained in needed areas."

Mrs. Jarratt suggests some other guidelines for making the interview work in your favor.

— allow the interviewer to set the tone or pace of the interview;

— Respond concisely and honestly to questions. Don't tell more than you know.

— maintain good eye contact with the interviewer.

— be sure you are prepared for the difficult questions such as, "What would you like to be doing in your career in ten years?" or "What are your limitations for this job?"

— Keep in mind that you're selling your most important product; yourself, and you are the world's leading authority on the product.

— be prepared to answer specific questions about your paid and unpaid work experience.

— conclude by sincerely thanking the interviewer for taking the time to discuss the job possibility with you.

"After you leave the interview, review what happened," Mrs. Jarratt said. "Where you properly prepared for what you were asked? Did you handle yourself as well as you would have liked? What would you do differently if you had another chance?"

"The answer to the last question may be very important because you may not get the job and you may be going for another interview very soon. Be ready to do a superior selling job of that quality product, you."

"Truth is within us," Robert Browning
